

FIGHT NIGHT

EVERY ARCHITECTURE DECISION SETTLED IN THE RING · JUDGED BY EVIDENCE ONLY

MAIN EVENT: THE SQL ENGINE

BY DECISION: columnar speed, engine sandbox

SQLite is a fine champion of a different weight class. Analytics wants columns; compliance wants `enable_external_access=False`. Unanimous cards.

CO-MAIN: THE AGENT'S SOUL

BY DECISION: regulators replay plans, not vibes

The crowd wanted the flashy southpaw. The judges wanted a trace they could re-run in court. Flash sells tickets; evidence wins titles.

THE METRICS BOUT

BY DECISION: the other guy was doping

Training-set scores test positive for data leakage every time. Stripped of the belt before the first bell. This poster is a warning.

THE FRAMEWORK OPENER

BY DECISION: typed contracts, free documentation

Django brought an ORM nobody ordered; Flask forgot its validation gloves. Pydantic contracts landed clean all night.

THE UNDERCARD

ECHARTS def. RECHARTS
REACT-GRID-LAYOUT def. HAND-ROLLED DRAG
POSTGRES def. MONGODB
3-MODEL TOURNAMENT def. PROPHET (no-show)
GEMINI-OPTIONAL def. GEMINI-REQUIRED

canvas survives 10k points; declarative specs let the backend compose charts bought physics, spent the week on features instead of collision bugs audit trails need schemas like courts need transcripts honest selection beat heavyweight sophistication; rematch offered in V2
no hidden dependencies; the fallback fights every CI night and never loses